58 PROVENANCE

BIDBI was founded with the environment in mind.

Born from an idea to rid the world of plastic bags and provide ethically sourced, expertly printed cotton bags to businesses and organisations.

Established in 2007, we have been producing high quality bags and perfecting our print methods for over ten years. We have rooted ourselves in the world of screen printing and we currently produce and print bags for some of the world's biggest brands.

We're a constantly growing team of highly skilled individuals based in Sheffield, Yorkshire. We've remained true to Sheffield's industrial heritage by using traditional printing techniques with the lowest environmental impact.

From the beginning, our focus has been our planet and the people involved. We're always striving to make sure we never settle and are constantly seeking new ways to improve our practises.

From making sure each bag has been responsibly sourced, to looking after our environment by reducing wastage at each step of the print process, it is our mission to offer our customers a high quality product that helps their business grow.

PRINT METHODS

PRINT METHODS

Screen Printing

Screen printing produces vibrant colours and the finished products can withstand far more stress than other techniques without cracking or fading.

It can be used on all bag colours and is best suited to designs which require a bright and solid finish. We can pantone match any ink to your design to ensure continuity across your brand.

Screen printing is very versatile, there are different ink effects available, whether its glitter, foil, metallic, reflective, neon, or something more specialist such as glow in the dark.

DST

Digital Screen Transfer allows you to print full colour images onto any colour bag and has a durable shiny finish. This print method is beneficial for printing photographic detail or images that require superior brightness and colour reproduction.

It does not have the same limitations of Heat Transfer printing and can be applied to any colour item. Pantone matching isn't available for this print method, however colours are typically vibrant.

Digital Textile Printing

Digital Textile Printing is a relatively modern technology and works much like an inkjet printer, with the ink being directly printed onto the fabric.

This is ideal for smaller quantities of photographic and full colour prints. The finish is soft and doesn't leave a coating making it ideal for garment printing.

Heat Transfer

Ideal if you have photographic, water colour, shaded or gradient artwork. The finish has a different texture to that of screen printing and will only work on light coloured bags such as natural or white. If there is white in the artwork it will not be printed and instead the colour of the bag will be visible.

“ Our master printers use a variety of print methods, ensuring the right print method is chosen to give your design the look and feel it deserves.”
